RE: M12972 — Confirmation Requested: Does the Rule 12 Address Finding Still Stand, and Ruling Issuance Date

Hi Lisa,

Thank you for the citations. It is my understanding that the test in Sherman Estate v. Donovan is the same doctrinal framework, refining the earlier Sierra Club test, that the Board already applied in its own Rule 12 ruling on my file (Document 331913). That ruling applied this framework and found that my address does not meet the threshold for public disclosure, while my name does. I'm not disputing that framework or the name finding.

What I'm asking is narrower: does the specific finding in the Rule 12 ruling regarding my address, that it "will not be made public in this matter," still stand as written? A direct confirmation would resolve this.

Since you've referenced the appeal process under section 36 of the Energy and Regulatory Boards Act, could you also confirm the exact date the Board considers the Rule 12 ruling to have been issued, so I understand the applicable timelines correctly?

Thank you,

David
